Drive in Italy Starts Pressure On Nazi Europe

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA, May 13.—Operations launched in Italy to expel the Germans by reliable military sources as the opening of a new phase in the Allied assault on Europe.

The situation appeared to be favorable. The Allies had 300 divisions in the field, more than had when they invaded Russia, but many of them were under strength. Hitler was seeking to exploit the weakness of his front line in some of the key areas.

LINEUP OF FORCES

Germany is believed to have 185 divisions on the Russian front, 125 divisions in the Balkans, and 125 divisions in the West. The Allies have 300 divisions in the field.

Charge Wilby Was Manacled To Bed, Chair

VICTORIA, May 13.—(CP)—In an affidavit filed in appeal court yesterday, W. H. M. Haldane, counsel for Ralph M. Wilby, wanted in New York to face 17 charges of grand larceny involving $275,864, charged that Wilby was manacled to a bed in the Commercial Hotel, Nanaimo, shortly after midnight May 5.

The affidavit claimed Wilby was manacled by two New York detectives, Sergeant Fred Hains and George Saltsky, and "violently restrained" when he shouted calls for help to two provincial policemen in the alleyway outside his room.

HANDCUFFED TO CHAIR

"This occurred at or about 1:30 a.m. on the morning of Friday, May 5," the affidavit said. "He was taken to the headquarters of the provincial police at Nanaimo and there handcuffed to a chair for several hours. "At or about 6:30 a.m., he was returned to the Commercial hotel and manacled to the bed by handcuffing one of his hands to the bed rail above his head so that his arm was extended above his head.

"At or about 8 a.m. he was brought one ham and egg sandwich which he was unable to eat as it was not fit for consumption, but was given no tea, coffee or anything else to drink.

"At or about 12 o'clock noon provincial police officers entered the room and he was removed to the provincial police headquarters at Nanaimo and locked up, where he remained until late afternoon and until I arrived and effected service of the writ of habeas corpus issued pursuant to the directions of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

Mr. Haldane said the affidavit was filed on information received from his client.

ARRESTED MARCH 12

Wilby was arrested here March 12, ordered extradited by county court Judge H. H. Shandley, April 11. Haldane applied for a writ of habeas corpus which was dismissed by Chief Justice Wendell Farris, May 4.

While another writ was being applied for before Mr. Justice Macfarlane, Wilby, given into the custody of the two New York officers, was taken from the courthouse, thence to Saanich, Duncan and eventually to Nanaimo where the second writ was served and Wilby returned to Victoria. Meanwhile appeal was taken from Chief Justice Farris' dismissal.

Mr. Goldwell, Mr. Hanson and Thursday Acting Chief Justice Gordon Sloan set next Thursday for hearing of the appeal in Vancouver, and Mr. Justice Macfarlane reserved decision on second writ of habeas corpus until Monday. Meanwhile Wilby remains in custody of Hains and Saltsky and is lodged in the city jail.

Canada's Press to Remain Free LaFleche Tells House In Debate on Censorship

By JARCY O'DONNELL
OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—War Services Minister LaFleche said yesterday in the Commons that "there is a free press in Canada, and there is not the slightest intention, so far as the government is concerned, of making it less free or not free."

Gen. LaFleche spoke after the appropriation act for the censorship in the war estimates of the war services department started a debate on news articles, newspapers, censors and censorship of private mail and telephone conversations.

Study of the war service estimates was concluded at the night session of the Commons, with much of the discussion centering on the work done by the national film board. J. F. Pouliot (L.-Temiscouata) opened the debate and said that "as long as it is the business of the censors to prevent information reaching the public, it is their duty to create a censorship system in which our infallible men may sit on the treasury benches, we have no democracy in this country."

EVIDENCE OF 'SCISSORS'

Mr. Pouliot said "my great surprise I see evidence of scissors having been used in the reports of The Canadian Press and the British United Press. The newspapers attach little importance to what is said here in parliament, though they devote full pages to reports of the debates and discussions in provincial legislatures."

Thomas Reid (L.-New Westminster) said the press of British Columbia was "intimidated" by members of the C.C.F. party.

"They went to the newspapers at the Fraser Valley and told them that in their party they had no many subscribers to be used either in papers and said 'if you do not give us anything good, we will withdraw all these subscriptions of our adherents.'"

NEARLY BLACKMAIL
Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, interrupted. "That is pretty nearly black mail."

Mr. Reid said "I was serious enough. 'In Vancouver, the Sun and the Province and the News Herald were informed that if they were not kindly they would withdraw the subscriptions from those papers.'"

M. J. Colwell, C.C.F. leader, asked if Mr. Reid knew of "that of his own knowledge?"

Mr. Reid said he knew of "of my own knowledge so far as the local papers are concerned, and I can tell you this: I have not seen any of the papers, but what I can prove. You look over my record in the House and if you can match it, you are going to have some."

Mr. Goldwell, Mr. Hanson and Anthony Hinks (S.C.—Vancouver) revived the question of letters of members of parliament being copied and sent to the press.

NONE CENSORED RECENTLY
Mr. Colwell said none of his letters had been censored recently, but two letters addressed to Mr. Gills had been censored. In one of them was a note from the post office department saying the letter had been opened in error.

Mr. Hanson said when he was leader of the opposition a letter addressed to him was opened and copied. He said he wondered if there had been any change in regulations governing the censorship of mail.

Mr. Hinks said censorship of the mail of members of parliament should be "permitted."

Most Modern Hearing Device For Veterans

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—Pensions Minister Mackenzie said yesterday in the Commons that his department has completed arrangements to provide "the most modern available hearing device" to veterans of the armed forces whose hearing has been affected by war service.

Answering W. K. Esling (P.C. Kootenay West) Mr. Mackenzie said the arrangements were completed after Mr. Esling and E. Boudreau, member of the Zenith Radio Corporation, had offered to provide the means for development with a newly developed radionic hearing device on the same basis as had been offered to the United States government for members of the American forces.

SOME DISTRIBUTED
Mr. Mackenzie said a number of the hearing devices already had been distributed to discharged members of the forces.

"I may add that we are grateful to my good friend the honorable member for West Kootenay, for his valuable services in this connection," said Mr. Mackenzie.

Mr. Esling, who is almost totally blind, has been investigating hearing aids and has been in Canada since the United States.

Mr. Esling said he had been made available to the Canadian public at prices similar to those prevailing in the United States.

Air Plan Dropped With "Reluctance"

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe read in the Commons yesterday the statement made by Lord Beaverbrook, British prime minister, that he had informed British House of Lords that Canada's post-war civil aviation plan would be dropped with "reluctance."

Mr. Howe said the statement he read Thursday was the one which had been made by Lord Beaverbrook at a meeting of the House of Commons on May 12. He said the statement was "too rigid" to form a basis for action at an international air conference.

Air Power

Vital Air Transport

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

Iron and oil were described recently as the two materials that "lie at the base of everything that is done in modern war." The description was offered in a talk before the Bond Club of New York by James V. Forrestal, Under-Secretary of the Navy. So fundamental are these materials, he declared, that despite the large reserves at home "the United States also must dip into the deposits of Cuba, Brazil and Chile."

With the death of Secretary Knox, the specific weight of Mr. Forrestal in the Washington line-up has increased. His voice is the most influential in naval affairs. He is regarded as the most vigorous opponent of plans to merge military services with a view to eliminating duplication and providing a more realistic organization for the country's air power. In the course of the case Mr. Forrestal has been accepted as representing prevailing opinion in the upper bracket naval circles.

To technicians and engineers, his emphasis on iron and oil says a great deal more than it does to laymen. It tells them that Mr. Forrestal—which is to say the Admiralty—looks upon the main reliance of national safety in America in the immediate future, and oil are the key materials of naval power.

Those of us who believe that air power is the primary military arm for the future, however, are more concerned about light metals and synthetic fuels.

TERMINAL IMPORTANCE
Aluminum, magnesium and other light metals have already acquired terminal importance because of their growing weight of aviation in war-making. Assuming that air power will be recognized as the paramount force, sources of these materials will become far more significant for American national safety and greatness than iron. The same applies to new fuels. Oil will continue to be used, but synthetic fuels, distilled from coal and vegetable matter, will become vastly important. More than 50 per cent of German high-octane fuel is synthetic and comes from coal. Likewise, according to geologists, American deposits of coal will last 2,000 years. Mr. Forrestal's worries are somewhat premature.

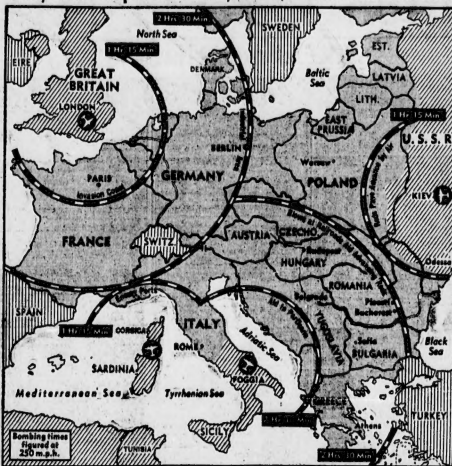

It can be foreseen that the reciprocal action of the present type of engine we used to use on the airplane is gone, having been replaced by the steam turbine. The steam turbine engine of this day is designed to be replaced by gas turbines. The propeller-engine combination now standard will be replaced by jet propulsion. The new gas turbines will use not only oil but alcohol, all sorts of hydrocarbons chemically produced from coal and vegetation. The rocket planes and torpedoes will move on oxygen and hydrogen.

In short, the emergence of air power to first place in the military scheme of things may completely revolutionize the demand for raw materials and shift in their relations to military force. Those who overlook this, and who regard iron and steel as all their plans on iron and oil, have not caught up with the new age, in my opinion.

In the seventeenth and eighteenth century, copper in an alloy was replaced by steel; wooden ships were replaced by ironclads and later by steel-plated vessels. Wood became a structural material and iron became the foundation of military strength. A shift of basic elements of greater proportions is now in the making. The shift will not take centuries or generations, but will occur within our own lifetime.

Iron and steel will give way, at military materials, to aluminum, magnesium alloys and other light

Final Decisions Not Attempted At Health Talks

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—A three-day Dominion-provincial conference on health insurance concluded here yesterday after all provincial health ministers had agreed to a draft national health insurance bill which has been under study by the Commons committee on social security.

The conference was held in camera, but Peniston Minister MacKenzie, chairman of the meetings, told The Canadian Press that the discussions were "most harmonious and co-operative."

NO FINAL DECISIONS
"No final decision was attempted," said MacKenzie. "Rather it was an explanatory conference dealing with the salient features of the draft national health bill, and provisions of the draft bill were discussed in the light of the contribution, the possibility of making up such a comprehensive scheme at all once, or the advisability of putting such a scheme in operation by degrees."

"The cost to the provinces was reviewed. The cost of the scheme was discussed and compared with various schemes now in existence in various parts of the country."

"Every province expressed itself as in favor of the preamble of health insurance," said Mr. MacKenzie.

The financial provisions of the bill will be discussed at the forthcoming general Dominion-provincial conference, said Mr. MacKenzie.

Shortwave Radio Station Is Urged For Pacific Coast

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—A. M. Hudson (C.F. MacKenzie) said yesterday in the Commons that Canada should be making plans for a shortwave radio station on the Pacific coast as the people of the Pacific area could hear the voice of Canada when her forces become more active in that area.

Mr. Hudson said that the Pacific coast would be able to consider such radio facilities for civilian purposes.

Mr. Hudson said that since Canada was at war with Japan the Pacific coast should be a matter of war strategy not a peacetime project. Broadcasts could be in languages the people understood.

Edmonton Squadron Marks 100th Victory, Leader's Safe Return

By LOUIS HUNTER

LONDON, May 13.—(CP)—The City of Edmonton squadron, pace-making unit during the last two months of the force known as the air defence of Great Britain, called off its private war against the Luftwaffe last night as it celebrated the squadron's 100th victory and the safe return of the commanding officer after 24 "dinghy hours" in the English Channel.

This famous R.C.A.F. Mosquito intruder squadron actually has run up a score of 111½ enemy aircraft destroyed in the air and on the ground since it was formed two years ago. But the celebration yesterday and last night was primarily to mark the reaching of the century figure in destruction of Nazi planes.

Airmen of the squadron have been such hot days recently that of their total 101 days were chalked up this year.

MISSING FOR DAY
Commanding officer, A. Barker, an Englishman who joined the R.C.A.F. in Canada, and his navigator, P.I.L. Gordon Frederick of Lindsay, Ont., were missing for almost a full day after a night patrol over enemy territory.

At squadron base, it began to look as if the party to celebrate the 100th victory would be cancelled. Then came a phone call to the mess from an English plane. It was from Barker and Frederick. They reported they had "left their plane in the channel and taken to their dinghy, but had been rescued and safely landed."

The party was on again. It lasted throughout the day, starting with a mid-day dinner followed by a sports day in the afternoon. At the dinner, Air Marshal S. L. Broadner, air officer commanding the R.C.A.F. overseas, was among the guests of honor.

HELPING LICK JERRY
"You are putting the R.C.A.F. and your country in the foreground of the pre-invasion picture," the air chief told the fliers. "And most important, you are helping to lick Jerry and the more of them you knock down the better we'll all like it."

Ottawa. The newspaper added that "21 of the new-type vessels will be built on the Pacific coast. Negotiations are in the final stage and builders can count on going ahead."

Gordon Graydon Urges Abolition Of Radio Licenses

OTTAWA, May 13.—(CP)—Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative leader, said last night in the Commons that he believed there were good reasons for abolition of the $250 annual radio license fee in the light of the revenue now being obtained by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

There was a growing feeling that the CBC should either have revenue in line with that anticipated in the first place and which was lower than that now received, or review the whole position in respect to the radio license fee.

Mr. Graydon said that War Services Minister LaFleche should see that an appointment of a permanent CBC general manager was made soon.

Red Dutton Offered Presidency

Y.M.C.A. Basketball Champions

AFTER an enforced three-day postponement on account of Tuesday's Alkali special which the Weather Man had overlooked last January, the local football season goes into high gear at Kingsway Park this week-end with a senior girls' fixture tonight and the men's double bill scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

The opener, which is a clash between Murray Sidman's Walk-Rites and Clare Hollingsworth's Army and Navy Pals, should provide good football, although the Pals may not be at full strength. The first game tomorrow is Central versus U.S. Army Air Force officers and Moose take on U.S. Army enlisted men in the second attraction.

And going further afield—it is noted that Mac Carey, the National League's foremost base thief of modern times, has signed to manage a club in the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, Other managers are Bert Niehoff, Claude Jonard, Mary McManus, Jack Kieza and Johnny Gottlieb.

League franchises will be operated in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, South Bend, Rockford, Racine and Kenosha. Niehoff is returning to handle the South Bend team and Gottlieb will manage the Racine team. The clubs officially commence training on Monday.

MORE BASEBALL THIS YEAR
THIS year's senior baseball schedule, released by Secretary Bill Harris on Friday, provides for 12 more games than did the 1943 list. The circuit, however, will have 20 clubs, one more than last year, but each will play 20 fixtures over the 30-game schedule as compared with 18 in '43.

The season opens a week from tomorrow, May 21, which is two days earlier than the boys started at Renfrew Park a year ago, and it closes five days later, August 17. Secretary Harris stated that the night that most of the repairs necessary have been effected and that everything will be in shape well ahead of the "play ball" call.

Feature Draws Field of 12
Racing Season Opens Today
At Calgary's Victoria Park

BY LOU DAVIES
CALGARY, May 13.—Victoria Park Calgary inaugurates the Canadian turf season for 1944 with seven well filled races down for decision today. The featured handicap drew a field of 12, four of which are on the also eligible list as only eight are permitted to start on this half mile racing oval.

The Winnipeg owned, Naths Pet, shaves up as the logical favorite after winning two of his last four races of the Bay Meadows track in California. Secretary Schilling has placed two weight 120 lbs. on the five year old. Most opposition is expected to come from the eastern bred Sweep Lad, a four year old colt which performed creditably around the Toronto tracks last year. He has the early speed necessary for the sharp turns of the half mile track.

There is plenty of contention in the race with such as Antares, F. Peng, Getwisk, Ball and Chain, Chief Rube and Calla Donna. Much interest will come in the running of the Springtime purple which brings out the leading Alva Derby eligibles over the five furlong route.

200 HORSES FOR MEET
Alf. Tarr's Divulge, shipped here recently from California, will meet Collins, Kinghorn, Pagan Star and others in the opening race.

TWILIGHT RACING
Post time for the two Saturday of the meeting and on Victoria Day will be 5:30 p.m. Other days two o'clock.

May Accept Position for The Duration

MONTREAL, May 13.—(CP)—Mervyn (Red) Dutton was tendered the presidency of the National Hockey League Friday at the annual meeting of the loop here, but he said he would not accept the position until he consulted with his business partners in the west.

"Under any circumstances," he added, "I would only accept the presidency for the duration; I hope to be able to make my decision within the next month or six weeks."

Dutton has been acting as managing director of the league since the late Frank Calder's death in 1942.

The rest of the day-long session was taken up by the election of governors, control of the drafting of four minor league players by the New York Rangers and the Chicago Black Hawks.

Black Hawks sent in application to draft Peter Foreck, Cleveland center, and Billie Smith, left wing, from the Quebec Senior Hockey League last season. Foreck is a former member of the Canadian Army.

For every game at home last season, the Chicago Black Hawks selected 200 of the choicest (45.75 per cent) seats for servicemen. They were given the U.S.G. for distribution, the only stipulation being that the seat had to be used by a man in uniform. The club, of course, paid the usual government price for handing the seats over to the U.S.G.

Laurel Harney, former local hockey and ball player, is catching on for Norvans in the Vancouver Senior Hockey League this season. The three other clubs in the coast loop are Arrows, S.W. and Bellingham. Wash. Harney was utility goalie with New West, and played for the Canadian Allan Cup campaign.

P.O. David Mery, yesterday reported side-kick of the Chicago Cubs of Fenelon on May 4, was captain of the Fenelon cricket team and was expected to take part in the games played here last week-end between No. 2 A.C.S. (Australian) and eleven. Edmonton cricketers claim the late Flying Officer Mery was both a grand cricketer and a grand fellow.

May Accept Position for The Duration

MONTREAL, May 13.—(CP)—Mervyn (Red) Dutton was tendered the presidency of the National Hockey League Friday at the annual meeting of the loop here, but he said he would not accept the position until he consulted with his business partners in the west.

"Under any circumstances," he added, "I would only accept the presidency for the duration; I hope to be able to make my decision within the next month or six weeks."

Dutton has been acting as managing director of the league since the late Frank Calder's death in 1942.

The rest of the day-long session was taken up by the election of governors, control of the drafting of four minor league players by the New York Rangers and the Chicago Black Hawks.

Black Hawks sent in application to draft Peter Foreck, Cleveland center, and Billie Smith, left wing, from the Quebec Senior Hockey League last season. Foreck is a former member of the Canadian Army.

For every game at home last season, the Chicago Black Hawks selected 200 of the choicest (45.75 per cent) seats for servicemen. They were given the U.S.G. for distribution, the only stipulation being that the seat had to be used by a man in uniform. The club, of course, paid the usual government price for handing the seats over to the U.S.G.

Laurel Harney, former local hockey and ball player, is catching on for Norvans in the Vancouver Senior Hockey League this season. The three other clubs in the coast loop are Arrows, S.W. and Bellingham. Wash. Harney was utility goalie with New West, and played for the Canadian Allan Cup campaign.

P.O. David Mery, yesterday reported side-kick of the Chicago Cubs of Fenelon on May 4, was captain of the Fenelon cricket team and was expected to take part in the games played here last week-end between No. 2 A.C.S. (Australian) and eleven. Edmonton cricketers claim the late Flying Officer Mery was both a grand cricketer and a grand fellow.

Grayson Picks Platter to Win The Preakness
BALTIMORE, May 13.—Colts, which at two long odds are the one another when the fillies weren't trimming them, ran a close race in the Kentucky Derby.

It was Preakness' turn when Stier ran out of gas going into the stretch. He is supposed to travel in his duel with Broadcloth.

Best Mulholland made no attempt to get Platter ready for the Run for the Roses, but has him at his hands and make him for the rich and historic The Preakness around old Pimlico's name and down its long stretches.

New Yorkers decided the new breeding Pukka Grey juvenile champion of 1943 when the strapping son of "First Blood" was chosen to challenge Stakes at Belmont, but when the distance was lengthened out to a mile and sixteenths in the fall, Platter stuck out like a Texas cactus.

Platter, getting his staying qualities from Platte and his speed from Leta, did not disappoint. He came from behind to top the Pimlico Futurity and was the favorite in the Kentucky Derby.

Victory here would make him the first to win both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. He is a colt, a son of the late Belmont Stakes at a mile and a half.

Platter, a big chestnut, filled out nicely over the winter at the farm where he was bred, in Philadelphia. He worked a mile in 1:40 handling on a Belmont track that was no better than good prior to his only start this year—a second to Redford in the Kentucky Derby.

A RACE UNDER HIS BELT
Johnny Longden didn't do much of a job on Platter in the Derby, but he obviously did a good job of instructions not to abuse him in his preparation for the Preakness.

Platter broke in a traffic jam, was in four or five pockets, but was out of the race when he was hit by a horse named Rodney Stone prevailed by a length in the Kentucky Derby.

Platter conceded to the Kentucky Derby, but he is a colt, a son of the late Belmont Stakes at a mile and a half.

Platter is a superior miler. He is more formidable than the guided Lucky Draw, which runs so well in the spring and may be coupled with him if he recovers sufficiently from an attack of colic. Lucky Draw is in his best condition, but had a little more than gallop to make a show of the remainder of the field in the second half of the Kentucky Derby.

Leadership Necessary

Inter-American Doctrine
Of Recognition Necessary
Sumner Welles Declares

This is the twenty-third of a series of articles by Sumner Welles, former United States Under Secretary of State, upon the subject of inter-American relations. The series is published in the Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

By SUMNER WELLES

Former United States Under Secretary of State
Last week the newspaper "La Prensa," of Buenos Aires, was suspended for five days by the Argentine dictatorship. Both "La Prensa" and its colleague, "La Nacion," have long been outstanding among the great newspapers of the world. During their illustrious record of service to the Argentine people they have maintained complete independence of editorial policy and an unwavering support for all of the essential freedoms of democracy. The suspension of "La Prensa" was an act of tyranny peculiarly pernicious at this moment in the history of the New World. It logically and properly called forth a savage outburst of condemnation on the part of the free press throughout the Americas, and particularly in the United States.

One of the strange features of this editorial condemnation was that in our own country, however, was that in a few instances the argument was advanced that this act of dictatorship provided an added justification for the refusal of our government to maintain any official relations with the Argentine government.

The editor of one of the ablest and most trenchant editorial pages in the United States has pointed out, for example, that the government of Sumner Welles quarantined itself from the "pestilence" which exists in Buenos Aires by continued non-recognition of the present Argentine government.

Some pertinent questions should be answered at this stage. When in the history of inter-American relations has the policy of non-recognition as a means of enforcing coercion ever yet been constructive? When has it ever contributed to the development of democratic processes of free institutions? When has it ever proved to be a means of promoting understanding and friendly relationships between the American peoples?

NON-RECOGNITION

For that matter—to take an even more recent instance—I wonder if the editor in question regards the policy of non-recognition by the United States of the Soviet government between 1917 and 1933 as either wise or successful. I doubt that he would maintain that our isolation from Russia during those years had contributed either to the availing of the Russian people to their need in their own interest to play a healthy part in international affairs or to the elimination of the causes for war.

Non-recognition should be limited to those cases where actual hostility is intended. The policy of non-recognition in order to exert political pressure is always sterile. It prevents the continuation of direct relations through which much can always be done to remove the grounds of discord and to find a means of paving the way for the ultimate removal of the cause of controversy. In inter-American relations the adoption by this government of such a policy creates violent illfeeling because it is construed as meaning only one thing—the assertion by the United States of an intention to dominate the affairs of neighboring peoples in the Western Hemisphere.

The result of the present policy of the Department of State toward Argentina has been to inflame all segments of Argentine opinion against us and temporarily to strengthen the hands of the military junta now in control.

What is equally damaging, a similar reaction has occurred in countries adjacent to Argentina. We have directly contributed to the reinforcement of Axis propaganda against the United States. It is notorious that many other American governments are not only deeply concerned by the present situation, but also increasingly restive. Not only their political, but their commercial and financial interests as well, are jeopardized by a continuation of the existing rationale.

NO UNDERSTANDING

When the Ramirez dictatorship in Argentina, which preceded the present Farrell dictatorship and with which this government did

No Allied-Russian
Joint Occupation
Plan Worked Out

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—While Britain and the United States have worked out a system for control of conquered areas of Germany, they have thus far failed, it was learned Friday, to get together with Russia on a plan for joint occupation of the enemy country some diplomatic authorities consider the one of the most urgent issues now confronting the three allied powers.

British Author
Dies in Cornwall

FOVEY, Cornwall, Eng., May 13.—(CP)—Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, British author known to readers of his novels as "Q," died Friday at age 80 of his home here. He had been in declining health since March when he was knoged down by a jeep as he was taking his daily constitutional. "Q" immortalized Fovey in his book, "Troy Town."

RENEWED THOUGHT

Where such consultation to take place the American government might well give renewed thought to the desirability of their adopting as a norm in inter-American relations the Estrada doctrine of recognition advanced some years ago by the government of Mexico. The Estrada doctrine provides that when a change of government takes place in any American republic recognition is not regarded as being necessary to continue diplomatic relations—mere "letters of credence" are sent by each other American government, without interruption of diplomatic relations, as a reply to the official notice that the new government has been constituted. In an official interpretation given to the doctrine by the Mexican Foreign Minister years ago he very accurately stated that this procedure "does not give rise to diplomatic bargaining for recognition, nor does it involve sound of any kind to the dignity and independence of a state." The door, of course, is still left open for the severance of official relations upon any of the grounds recognized as valid by international law. Had all the American republics adopted this policy the present highly dangerous situation would never have developed. In view of the intolerable impasse now brought about, one can only hope that one of the American governments will undertake leadership as each government is empowered to do by existing agreements, and request a consultative meeting in order to check the growing jeopardy to hemispheric unity before more harm results to the vital interests of all of the American nations.

Rapped at Trial

WINNIPEG, May 13.—(CP)—Defense Counsel L. D. Moronick, at the opening of the assize court trial of Leslie W. Young, 17, on a murder charge, yesterday presented a motion to the court to have the magazine, Winnipeg Free Press, and Special Detective Cases, Toronto detective magazine, for contempt of court.

Chief Justice H. A. Robson refused to entertain the motion immediately and said it would be dealt with "about the middle of June."

Young is charged with the murder last Nov. 11 of Edwin Pearce, guard at a downtown detention house.

Moronick said that the article in the magazine "in my opinion, unfair, unjust and prejudicial to a fair and impartial trial of Leslie Young."

Moronick said the article also concerned the case of Lewis McNeil, 14, and George Janssens, 15. The latter was acquitted Thursday of a manslaughter charge laid after Pearce's death. McNeil, charged with murder, has not yet been tried.

More than one-half million people in England and Wales are named Smith.

Troops Get Leave
To Assist Seeding

WINNIPEG, May 13.—(CP)—More than 1,500 men in military training centres in the prairie provinces have been granted leave to assist in spring seeding, military authorities announced yesterday.

They will aid farmers in the western districts who are faced with a shortage of farm help. Average leave will be approximately two months.

Leaves to 785 Saskatchewan men will be granted while Alberta and Manitoba will each supply about 400.

Temperatures remained cool yesterday on the prairies, but forecasts promised showers and higher temperatures.

The Canadian National Railway reported in a crop survey that western moisture conditions have improved, but more rain is required to insure steady growth after germination. Wheat seeding is still underway but has been completed in many southern districts.

PAINT UP — CLEAN UP — FIX UP

Spring Rose Plantings Demand Careful Culture

Roses are generally planted in the spring despite the advice of the rosarians whose experiences have taught them that late fall planting is best. However, roses can be planted in the spring with every assurance of success if the gardener follows good practices. Roses planted now will take hold of the ground at once and bloom within 10 weeks. If dormant roses cannot be planted before the apple trees come into bloom, it is better to plant them in the fall. After apple blossom time, potted roses may be planted. But secure these roses only from a dependable dealer.

Many gardeners purchase roses from merchants who know little or nothing about plant material. The buyer of a rose bush has a right to expect well-grown plants, dug and properly handled. Plants should be so packed or stored as to preserve the moisture within the plants.

Dig the hole square, not round, and larger at the bottom than at the top. Cut off damaged roots and spread roots out carefully, pointing them in all directions.

Plants which have become dry, shriveled and brittle should be rejected. Rose plants packed in a paper carton, with a transparent window and a bright colored picture on it are to be found in all sorts of stores. Unless these roses have been recently packed, they are bound to be badly dried out and therefore useless. The fact that a few buds have sprouted means nothing. These plants will not develop into healthy plants, no matter how good the soil or care may be. Learn to purchase first-class nursery plants. The American Association of Nurserymen recognizes three major classes of roses. The No. 1 grade must have 3 or more canes at least 1 inch long (18-24 inches). No. 1's grade plants must have at least two canes that are over 18 inches and the No. 2 grade must have two canes or more that are at least 18 inches long. All plants must be good looking and well branched and rooted.

Best roses for the garden are budded plants grown in the open ground for three seasons. The favored hybrid tea and other dwarf roses should always be budded stock and field grown. Heelbush grown roses, while satisfactory in southern states, are seldom thrifty when grown north of the Mason-Dixon line. Seldom will sucker growth from the root stock develop, but since this growth is easily identified, it can be easily removed.

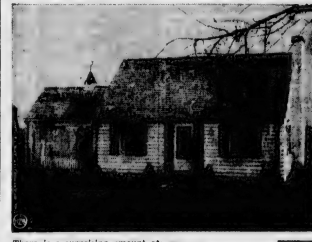

Pumpkins, Squash Are Easy to Grow

Squash and pumpkins are of two general kinds, the bush varieties and the long running varieties. Their culture is similar. As a rule the bush varieties are early and the vines run very little, if at all. Bush squash and pumpkin may be planted as close together as 3 by 3 feet in the home garden. The long running varieties, when grown on well fertilized soil, attain a length of 20 feet and should be grown only in the larger garden, spacing hills 8 feet apart.

Pumpkins and squash are easy to grow. If planted in loose, well fertilized soil and given plenty of moisture.

At time of planting seed in the open ground, the soil should be moist but never wet, when available. To retain moisture after planting, cover seed immediately with fine, freshly prepared earth and press it down firmly and smoothly. This firming of the soil brings the particles of earth into close contact with the seed, prevents drying out, and facilitates growth.

Small House Contains Unusual Amount of Space

There is a surprising amount of space in this seemingly small one-bedroom Connecticut cottage.

Drive Space Deep, Turn Soil Over Is Still Best Way

Anyone Can Spade a Little at a Time.

Victory gardeners should turn a deaf ear to the debate now going on among theorists about the wisdom or folly of the ancient practice of plowing to turn the soil over. Unless the garden was spaded last fall, it should be either plowed or spaded as soon as in condition to start this spring, and the soil should be turned over.

Drive the spade straight down, to get maximum depth, lift it high enough to enable you to drop the soil about side up. Take your time about this, working not over an hour a day, and your garden will be ready in a surprising short time, with a minimum of sore muscles.

Working an hour a day, a garden 1,000 square feet in area can be spaded in eight days. A good way is to mark out the area you intend to work at one time. Then open a trench at one end, depositing the dirt removed from it near the other end of the area. Now lift the soil adjoining the trench, so that a second trench is opened and the earth from it deposited, bottom up, in the first trench, continue until the day's stint is done, filling in the last trench with soil removed from the first.

In the spring, be careful not to spade into the soil undecayed leaves, manure, plant stems, or to turn over heavy soil, which may decay slowly and make it difficult to cultivate. Light soil, or cover crops, may be turned under, or a light dressing of manure may be handled in this way. Spread it evenly over the area, and after the first trench is opened, rake the manure from the next strip to be spaded, and place it in the bottom of the trench.

Continue in this manner, making sure that all the manure is buried so deeply that it will never catch in your cultivating tools. In general it is better to pile up and and debris in a compost heap to decay; than to spade it into the soil in the spring, where it is likely to interfere with cultivation. It will not increase the food content of the soil until after it has decayed, and may in fact reduce it.

SWISS CHARD GIVES CONTINUOUS GROWTH

Swiss chard, known also as spinach beet, is easily grown. A continuous crop may be had from mid-summer until frost, through constant cutting. Seed is sown early in the spring, until August. Do not sow more than 15 feet of row for a season's planting. If only one sowing is done, or more than three or four feet at a time if successive plantings is the proposed method. Swiss chard is sparsely sown and covered with a half-inch of sandy soil; seedlings are thinned to stand six to eight inches apart. Swiss chard appreciates a well-manured and limed soil. Good drainage is essential.

Tomatoes Sensitive to Weather

Tomatoes grow best in a well-drained, sandy, loamy soil to which lime has been added. A loose, limed soil encourages deeper root growth. Plants of early varieties should not be set out until after the frostproof rate when all danger of chill is over. Plants for late varieties can be sown in the garden from seed sown in mid-May. Next results are obtained if these plants are not transplanted. The average home gardener should buy tomato plants offered by dealers at the time they should be planted out. The best plants are stocky and generally no more than 8 to 12 inches high. Plants grown indoors should be transplanted in the seedling stage from the flat to individual containers, when four to five inches high, transferred from the warm house to the cold frame or cool room where the temperature can be maintained between 55 and 60 degrees. This will retard growth, and so harden off the plants. If the spring is usually an omen of your plants are tall and spindly, colder weather at hand.

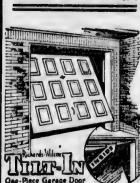

Ring of fertilizer, placed around tomato plant, will speed its growth.

planch them back to make them stocky.

It is said that thunderstorms in the spring are usually an omen of your plants are tall and spindly, colder weather at hand.

Victory Loan Is Over Top in All Rural Areas

All rural Northern Alberta units achieved their minimum quotas in the Sixth Victory Loan by 11 a.m. Saturday morning and canvassers were working strenuously to achieve new self-imposed objectives, it was announced at headquarters.

All the close of business on Friday, May 12, the 50 rural units had passed their minimum objectives. Early Saturday morning the first of the units still below the 100 per cent mark reported in that their quotas had been achieved. This message came from Sangudo. Immediately following this call, the minimum objective had been passed.

Before 10 a.m. two other units, Field and Edson, reported that sales had passed the minimum quota, and shortly before 11 a.m. Hinton came through to give Northern Alberta rural areas a clean sweep in quota achievement.

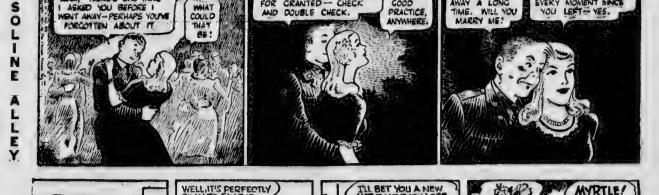

The accomplishment of the citizens of Northern Alberta in the 50 Victory Loan units is a great stimulus to their fighting forces now on the verge of the supreme test of the war.

Vegreville is leading the field with 215.3 per cent of its quota reached. Second in the list is Mundare with 192 per cent. The third is Smoky Lake running a close third with 191.3 per cent.

Edmonton rural went over the top on Friday afternoon and subscriptions are coming in fast throughout Saturday morning. It is probable that a record for sales in this area will be achieved.

The following is a tabulation of number of applications received, the amount subscribed and the percentage of quota achieved:
